

North Zone Convention

GC Sanjauli sent four of its history students to participate in the North Zone Convention held at DPS Ludhiana on 23-24 Nov 2019. The convention was organized by Spic Macay, a non-profit organization that promotes Indian classical music, dance, and culture.

Participation

The four students from GC Sanjauli actively participated in the convention and attended various workshops and sessions on Indian classical music, dance, and culture. They also got the opportunity to interact with eminent personalities from the field of arts and culture. The students gained a lot of knowledge about Indian culture and heritage and were able to broaden their horizons.

Workshops and Sessions

The convention had many workshops and sessions on various forms of Indian classical music and dance. The students from GC Sanjauli attended these sessions and learned about different forms of classical music and dance like Kathak, Bharatanatyam, Hindustani classical music, etc. They also learned about the history and evolution of these art forms.

Interaction with Eminent Personalities

The convention also gave the students an opportunity to interact with eminent personalities from the field of arts and culture. The students from GC Sanjauli got to meet and interact with renowned classical dancers, musicians, and musicologists. They also got to attend lectures by experts in the field of Indian classical music and dance.

Conclusion

The North Zone Convention organized by Spic Macay at DPS Ludhiana was a great opportunity for the students of GC Sanjauli to learn about Indian classical music, dance, and culture. The students gained a lot of knowledge and were able to interact with experts in the field.

Vikram Bhardwaj,
Asstt. Professor
Dept of History