Introduction:

The NSS Unit of Centre of Excellence, Government College Sanjauli, initiated a special educational initiative named "GyanSrijan." The mission was conducted for 15 days, from 1 January to 15 January, with the aim of providing educational support to the children of workers employed at the college. Under this initiative, NSS volunteers taught children basic educational subjects and helped them improve their knowledge and learning abilities. On the first day of the mission, NSS volunteers also distributed food items among the children as a gesture of care and support. This initiative reflected the NSS motto, "Not Me But You," by promoting education, kindness, equality, and social responsibility. Through GyanSrijan, the NSS Unit aimed to create a positive learning environment and contribute to the educational development and well-being of children.

Objectives:

The main objective of this activity are:

1.To provide educational support to the children of workers employed at the college and help them develop their basic academic skills.

2.To promote the importance of education and encourage children to develop an interest in learning and gaining knowledge.

3.To create a friendly and supportive learning environment where children can learn comfortably and improve their understanding of different subjects.

4.To encourage NSS volunteers to participate in community service and educational activities and understand their responsibilities towards society.

5.To promote the values of equality, kindness, and social responsibility by supporting children who may need additional educational assistance.
6.To develop a sense of care, cooperation, and humanity among volunteers through teaching and helping children.

About the Activity :

The GyanSrijan Mission was organised by the NSS Unit of Centre of Excellence, Government College Sanjauli, from 1 January to 15 January. A total of fifteen children participated in this 15-day educational initiative. NSS volunteers taught the children according to their respective syllabuses and helped them improve their basic learning skills.Special attention was given to the three younger children, who were taught the English alphabet (A–Z), counting from 1 to 10, and Hindi Varnamala. To make learning interesting, volunteers used games to teach counting. The other children were also taught according to their syllabuses. Along with studies, the children participated in dance activities to make the sessions enjoyable.On the first day, NSS volunteers also distributed food items among the children as a gesture of care and support. Overall, the mission combined education, games, and recreational activities to create a friendly learning environment and promote the educational development of children.encourage their participation.
