

S.No.	Course Code	Course Title	Course Objectives	Course Outcomes
1	BAPSYCA101TH	Foundation of Psychology	The primary objective of this course is to examine the major theories, frameworks, and topics in psychology.	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Develop a working grasp of psychological topics, areas, and applications. • Recognise and utilise diverse learning theories in real-world situations. • Extensive understanding of many theories and concepts of Cognition and Behaviour in the areas of Motivation, Emotion, Intelligence, Thinking, and Personality, among others.
2	BAPSYCA102TH	Introduction to Social Psychology	Learning the fundamental theories and concepts underlying social conduct as well as becoming aware of the biggest difficulties and problems facing social psychology as a field are the goals of social psychology.	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Develop insight and evaluate social psychologists' contributions to human society knowledge. • Analyse successful socialisation, group dynamics (inter- and intra-group), and prosocial behaviour techniques. • Explain how attitudes are formed and the several techniques that may be used to alter attitudes.
3	BAPSYCA203TH	Psychopathology	This course's main emphasis is on the etiology, prognosis, epidemiology, diagnosis, and distinct diagnostic criteria for a variety of behavioural disorders, including anxiety, affective, and various psychotic illnesses, among others, using case studies. New Age psychological illnesses are also covered. The multi-axial assessment method is used in this course to measure and monitor clusters of mental	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Identify several forms of anxiety and mood disorders, as well as their clinical picture and treatment. • Plan therapeutic programmes for management based on therapy aims. • Students will be able to identify indications and symptoms of psychopathology. • They will be able to evaluate the symptoms, nature, symptoms and firmly classify them into DSM- 5 diagnostic categories.	causes, and dysfunctions of these illnesses. <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Develop an awareness of the aetiology of diverse mental health symptoms and diseases.

4	BAPSYCA204TH	Statistical Methods	This course aims to teach students the fundamentals of statistics and quantitative methods used in psychology.	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Understand the fundamental concepts of statistics in psychology. • Discover and learn about the numerous statistical techniques available for analysis. • Learn data classification and presentation; graphical representation used to transmit data. • Analyse both qualitative and quantitative data.
5	BAPSYCA205TH	Sociopathic Disorders	The "Understanding Sociopathic Disorders" course is intended to provide students with a thorough examination of sociopathic disorders, sometimes referred to as antisocial personality disorders (ASPD). This course is designed to provide students with a comprehensive grasp of sociopathy, including its etiology, diagnostic criteria, related features, and prospective treatment techniques.	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Understanding of ASPD. • Etiology and Risk Factors. • Impact on Individuals and Society. • Ethical Considerations. • Empathy and Understanding.
6	BAPSYCA206TH	Psychology of Collective Behaviour	The "Psychology of Collective Behaviour" course explores the intriguing topic of how people act when they are a part of a group or	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Understanding group dynamics. • Analyzing crowd behavior.

			collective. The term "collective behaviour" refers to the behaviours, including actions, feelings, and ideas, that occur when people operate in a group setting as opposed to acting alone.	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Understanding crowd psychology and emergencies.
7	BAPSYCA309TH	Experimental Psychology	The fundamental foundation of the field of psychology includes experimental psychology. Students are introduced to the fundamental methodologies of experimental psychology.	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Students will exhibit understanding of important ideas relating to sensation and perception. • Application of perceptual organisation concepts in real-world settings. • Review psychological principles using experiments as the medium.
8	BAPSYCA310TH	Stress Management	The course will teach students how to manage stress on an individual and institutional level, as well as how to design and execute effective strategies for preventing and managing workplace stress.	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Understand the basic principles of stress management • Develop proactive responses to stressful situations • Develop a long term action plan to minimize and better manage stress
9	BAPSYCA307TH	Health and Wellbeing	This course will allow each student to investigate the various ways in which psychological theory may affect health, behaviour, and health care systems.	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Understanding Historical Perspectives on Health and Illness • Introduction to the use of health psychology in improving people's lives and the growth of both individuals and groups. • The course will teach students how to utilise psychology to better understand significant health concerns.

10	BAPSYCA308TH	Psychology of Personality	This course focuses on integrating principles from several personality theories.	<ul style="list-style-type: none">• Illustrate various theories of personality.• It gives students the chance to get to know the main theories and traditions surrounding the investigation of personality and personal development.
-----------	--------------	---------------------------	--	---